Part 2: Project Case Study Copy

◆ 1. Problem Statement & Brief

Modern organic skincare brands face a saturated digital marketplace crowded with loud, over-designed promotional banners. The creative mandate was to produce an end-to-end multi-platform e-commerce campaign for Vellum that communicates premium ingredient purity and dermatologist-level skin barrier recovery without relying on aggressive flash sales visual hooks.

◆ 2. Design Strategy & Rationale

The core strategy relies on extreme minimalist design principles—using generous negative space, sophisticated serif typography, and a soothing, neutral palette. By keeping frames completely clear of chaotic geometric dividers and relying on a pure square grid layout (1080 × 1080 px), the product packaging and botanical compound mockups act as the main visual anchors.

◆ 3. Design Approach & Implementation

All text blocks were stylized using advanced tracking (+8% letter spacing) on all-caps titles to establish a luxury fashion-house editorial atmosphere. Action items were housed inside smooth, completely rounded pill buttons to visually align with organic product silhouettes. A step-by-step narrative architecture was designed into a 5-slide educational carousel to logically guide users through an evening recovery routine.

◆ 4. Final Outputs (Ad Previews Breakdown)

- Landing Page UI: Clean product-reveal web experience showcasing high-end gallery grids, minimalist feature blocks, and zero-friction purchase callouts.
- Multi-Platform Ad Set: 2x Minimalist Square Feed Posts, 2x Urgency-Driven Story Ads, 1x 5-Slide Routine Lookbook Carousel, and 1x Facebook/Google Display Ad Banner.

◆ 5. Expected Business Impact / KPIs

- Brand Perception Lift: Clean editorial execution is projected to elevate Perceived Brand Value by 35%, enabling seamless premium price-tier positioning.
- Conversion Rate (CR): Replacing cluttered ad grids with focused pill-shaped single call-to-actions is expected to improve direct ad click-through rates by 14%.
